ABA Becomes Pro Cage League With a Future

By LEE MEADE

Two years ago the American Basketball Association was more fancy than fact. But last year it became a reality and acquired a past. This season it is looking forward to a destiny as the league of the future.

Some old faces are gone. George L. Mikan has stepped down as commissioner after guiding the young professional league through its first two embryonic years.

But new ones have come on the scene. James C. Gardner, an ebullient North Carolina politician turned sports entrepreneur, headed a "Young Turk" movement within the league that changed the ABA from imitators to innovators and from followers to leaders.

When the National Basketball Association approached the ABA last summer with a proposal to discuss merger possibilities, it was Gardner who waved the big stick of independence.

"We're ready to talk merger at any time," Gardner declared, "but only as equal partners."

Then, using his own Carolina Cougars to prove his determination, Gardner quickly signed NBA super-star Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers to a long-term "future" contract in the ABA.

The Washington Capitols, who won Western Division and ABA Playoff crowns as last season's Oakland Oaks, followed suit by picking off former NBA scoring champion Dave Bing of the Detroit Pistons. The Los Angeles Stars signed Zelmo Beatty of the Atlanta Hawks.

Another bombshell fell when Spencer Haywood, the hero of the U. S. victory in the 1968 Olympic Games, announced he was passing up his final two years of college eligibility to sign with the Denver Rockets.

While Gardner was quick to acknowledge the ABA would negotiate with any NBA player who wanted to play in the league, he disavowed any knowledge of rumored plans to raid the nation's colleges.

"Haywood's case was unique," he explained. "Spencer told our Denver club he was not returning to college under any circumstances because of family hardships. He said he wanted to play professional basketball and planned to do so—if not with us or the NBA, then in Europe or with the Harlem Globetrotters. I authorized Denver to sign him under our league's hardship provision."

Signing other players with college eligibility remaining to compete in the ABA during the 1960-70 season will not be permitted, Gardner said.

"I don't know of any club in our league that has approached a boy to give up his final year of college basketball to play in the ABA," Gardner explained. "I personally guarantee that any such contracts—and I doubt there are any—will be voided."

ABA officials, although elated over the presence of Haywood and the future delivery of NBA super-stars like Cunningham, Bing and Beatty, believe the league can stand on its own ability. They point to players like Washington's Rick Barry and Warren Armstrong, Indiana's Mel Daniels, Denver's Larry Jones and New Orleans' James Jones.

Barry, although sidelined by a crippling knee injury much of last season, led the ABA in scoring with a 34.0 average. Previously, he had won titles in college at Miami (Fla.) and in the NBA with the San Francisco Warriors.

Daniels, a unanimous All-America at New Mexico University two years ago, was the ABA's Rookie of the Year in 1967-68 and its Most Valuable Player in 1968-69. Armstrong took over in Barry's absence to lead the Oaks to victory in the league's post-season playoffs.

The Jones boys became the first players to score more than 2,000 points in a single season in the ABA, Larry getting 2,133 and James 2,050. Larry also had an incredible scoring streak during the campaign in which he scored 30 or more points in 23 consecutive games.

The ABA has expanded its regular schedule from 78 to 84 games. It has retained its popular 3-point field goal on shots from outside a 25-foot arc, the 12-foot wide free throw lane (same as the colleges and high schools use) and the 30-second possession clock (same as employed in Olympic basketball).

The lineup for 1969-70 includes the Indiana Pacers, Kentucky Colonels, Miami Floridians, Pittsburgh Pipers, New York Nets and Carolina Cougars in the six-team Eastern Division. The Western Division will have the Dallas Chaparrals, Denver Rockets, Los Angeles Stars, New Orleans Buccaneers and Washington Capitols.

The Pipers moved back to Pittsburgh where they won the ABA title in 1967-68 after spending last season in Minnesota. Carolina will be based in the tri-city area of Charlotte, Greensboro and Raleigh, N. C., after moving from Houston. And Washington is bringing back professional basketball to the nation's capital in its move from Oakland.

The ownership of the Nets also changed hands, but the New York club will keep its nickname (it rhymes with Mets and Jets) and continue to operate from its Long Island base.

JACK DOLPH
American Basketball Association Commissioner

JACK DOLPH, ABA Commissioner

Within two months of being elected Commissioner of the American Basketball Association, Jack Dolph landed the big one—a Network television contract for the third annual All-Star Game.

The contract marked the first time the A. B. A. had coast-to-coast exposure and opened the way for future telecasts, a giant step for the three-year old league.

Dolph brought to the Commissioner's Office a vast knowledge and interest in sports, as well as a practical work-a-day background in television having completed 19 years with CBS.

"I've watched the growth and development of the A. B. A. with interest — as much as any other sports fan," Dolph said at a press conference October 29 at Toots Shor's in New York announcing his appointment. "And, I've been impressed.

"The owners I've met are exceptionally able people. They are determined and aggressive . . . . and they have the wherewithall to make the A. B. A. a success. I'm in the A. B. A. to help them achieve it."

His background in television raised speculation on a network TV contract for the new league and a possible merger with the National Basketball Association.

"We do not have a television contract now," Dolph said. "I hope to arrange one.

"A merger has value to both leagues. In the future, economics may dictate it. Right now, we are neither counting on it, nor worrying about it."

Dolph, Director of Sports for the CBS Television Network since 1959, is a native of Philadelphia. He graduated from Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn., and served two years in the Army Intelligence in Italy just after World War II.

Following discharge from the service, he worked as a free lance writer in New York during the early days of television and was editor and publisher of a weekly newspaper near Philadelphia. He worked for WCAU-TV in Philadelphia before joining CBS.

Dolph lives in Riverside, Conn., with his wife, Jean, and their two sons, John and Andy.

THURLO E. McCRADY, Executive Director

Thurlo McCrady

Thurlo E. McCrady has been well-prepared for his role as Executive Director of the American Basketball Association.

As an athlete, he played four varsity seasons of intercollegiate basketball and football, earning all-conference honors in both sports.

As a coach, he directed his intercollegiate teams in basketball and football to 14 titles in 14 years.

As an athletic director, he planned a modern field house that was years ahead of its time and supervised a program that helped establish his school as one of the basketball powers of the nation.

As a game official, he built up more than 25 years experience and is responsible for many of the officiating innovations in professional football and basketball today.

As a sports administrator, he has served both the American Football League and the A. B. A. as an assistant commissioner during their formative years and watched them grow to maturity.

"Mac" enjoyed an outstanding playing career at Hastings (Neb.) College and led the nation in 1930 by drop kicking the longest field goal of the year — a 53-yard effort that would be a remarkable feat even by today's standdards.

Graduating cum laude in mathematics at Hastings, he received his master's degree in administration of athletics at the University of Southern California and has completed much of the work toward a doctorate at USC and the University of Iowa.

McCrady returned to his alma mater in Hastings in the dual capacity of coach and athletic director and during an eight-year span won 12 conference titles—6 each in basketball and football. He also was coach and athletic director at South Dakota State University for six years and coached title-winning teams in both sports.

In 1946, he became director of athletics at Kansas State University in Manhattan, Kan. During his six-year tenure, he planned the 12,500-seat Ahearn Field House and watched the Wildcats develop into one of the nation's finest college basketball teams, a reputation they still enjoy.

He entered private business in 1952, but continued his interest in athletics as a dedicated college football and basketball official.

Commissioner Joe Foss persuaded McCrady to join the administrative staff of the A. F. L. when it was organized in 1959 and he served as assistant to the commissioner until the merger with the National Football League in 1966. He became assistant commissioner to George L. Mikan when the A. B. A. was formed in 1967.

He and his wife, Edith, live in Ft. Lee, N. J.

BURT SCHULTZ, Public Relations Director

Burt Schultz

Burt Schultz' earliest recollection of basketball was seeing the legendary Hank Luisetti make his Madison Square Garden debut in the thirties.

From his seat high in the balcony, Burt got approximately the same view of the game that he has gotten in recent years while in charge of the Goodyear blimps.

Nevertheless, it was the start of a continuing interest in basketball that made him an interested spectator at many college and professional games throughout the years.

Burt brings to the A. B. A. an impressive sports background and great knowledge of promotion. His public relations career has always been concentrated in the sports area and he is widely known to writers and editors around the country.

While with Goodyear, Burt covered every major sporting event ranging from football's Super Bowl to the U. S. Open golf tournament, the Indianapolis 500 and the America's Cup Yacht Race.

When asked if he liked going to the A. B. A., Burt replied: "It will be much easier blowing up basketballs than blimps!"

One of his last assignments with Goodyear was promoting colored bike tires, called "Crazy Wheels." Therefore, it has been rumored that the switch in jobs should be titled "From Crazy Wheels to Crazy Balls!"

NORM DRUCKER, Supervisor of Officials

Norm Drucker

"The best compliment a professional basketball official can receive is for the fans to leave the arena without remembering his name."

This is the appraisal of one of the toughest jobs in sports by a man who has been acknowledged by players, coaches, news media and other officials to be the best in the game.

Norm Drucker, 47, is Supervisor of Officials for the American Basketball Association.

"Officials don't have to be loud," the soft-spoken Drucker continued. "It's very important that an official be only a small part of the game. But he must command the respect of the players and coaches in order to be most effective. He can only gain that respect by his own performance and his ability to demonstrate a consistency night after night."

This is the philosophy of the man who has been chosen to build the officiating program of the 2-year-old A. B. A. He joined the new league last summer, bringing with him 15 years of officiating experience in the National Basketball Association.

Drucker was one of four N. B. A. officials who moved to the A. B. A.

Drucker has a solid background in basketball. A native of Brooklyn, he played at Erasmus Hall High School and later at City College of New York for the great Nat Holman. He was a teammate of William (Red) Holzman on CCNY's National Invitation Tournament team of 1941.

After receiving his bachelor's and master's degrees in education, Drucker played four years in the American Basketball League (now the Eastern League) with the Trenton (N. J.) Tigers and the Troy (N. Y.) Celtics. He also played four years of service baskebtall while in the U. S. Army in Europe.

He and his wife, Shirley, make their home in East Meadow, N. Y. They have two sons, Fred, 21, and Jim, 17.

CAROLINA COUGARS

Bones McKinney

Winning basketball has become a tradition at Carolina colleges and universities. So, when the Carolina Cougars joined the American Basketball Association this season and started to rebuild the old Houston Maverick organization, guess what the front office was looking for?

The answer is obvious. Carolina ballplayers.

It not only makes for a good drawing card, but also for a good basketball team and the wheeler-dealer success of General Manager Don DeJardin brought in some of the top talent in North and South Carolina history.

There's Doug Moe and Larry Miller, both out of the University of North Carolina, and Bob Verga from Duke. That trio gives Coach Horace (Bones) McKinney a sturdy foundation to build around.

Everything about the Cougars is new—the front office, the coach, the players, the uniforms and the location in one of America's hottest basketball areas. And, if McKinney can come up with a big pivotman to go with the other talent, Cougar fans are going to have a lot to cheer about in the club's first season.

De Jardin recently negotiated an arrangement with the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association that brought 7-foot-1 Rich Niemann to the Cougars. The former St. Louis University standout could be just what Carolina needs to tip the balance for a winning season.

Moe is a true superstar in the ABA. He led the league in total points two years ago at New Orleans with 1,884 and averaged 19.0 points on a championship Oakland team last year. Miller had a fine rookie season with Los Angeles last year but at 6-4 may find it difficult to play on the same front line with Moe, who is 6-6. McKinney does have 6-8 Randy Mahaffey of South Carolina, 6-8 rookie Bill Bunting of North Carolina and 6-7 Hank Whitney of Iowa State at forwards.

Verga spent the first two years dividing his time among Dallas, Denver, New York and Houston, plus a six-month hitch with the U. S. Army. But he appears to have found a home and his scoring average should soar.

McKinney also is high on 6-foot Gene Littles, a rookie from High Point College in North Carolina. The Cougars also have top flight reserves in Calvin Fowler and Steve Kramer.

Center remains a question mark. McKinney has used 6-8 George Peoples, a dependable understudy to Mel Daniels at Indiana the past two years, during the early portion of the season. If Niemann can win the job from Peeples, it would be a good sign the Cougars are on the prowl.

A.B.A. HAD ITS BEGINNING FEB. 2, 1967

Formation of the American Basketball Association was formally announced at a press conference at the Hotel Carlyle in New York City on February 2, 1967. Prior to the announcement, officials and organizers had been meeting informally for several months and had just completed three days of negotiations at the Hotel St. Regis.

Charter franchise cities included New York, Indianapolis, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Pittsburgh, New Orleans, Dallas, Houston, Kansas City, Oakland and Anaheim. George L. Mikan was named commissioner. Officers of the A.B.A. were Gary Davidson of the Dallas franchise, president; Gabe Rubin of Pittsburgh, vice-president; Sean Downey Jr. of New Orleans, secretary and James Ackerman of Anaheim, treasurer.

The league awarded an 11th franchise to Louisville, Ky., at a meeting in New Orleans March 5 and approved the transfer of the Kansas City franchise to Denver at a meeting in Oakland April 2.

DALLAS CHAPARRALS

Max Williams

If the late-season performance by the Dallas Chaparrals last year was any indication of things to come, then count the Roadrunners in as a prime contender for the American Basketball Association title this season.

After spending the first half of the campaign mired in the Western Division cellar, Dallas rallied around a pair of rookie guards—Glen Combs and Ron Boone—to win 28 of its final 45 games and make the playoffs with a 41-37 record.

And making the record even more impressive is the fact that the Chaps were the only team in the league to break even in the season series (5-5) with Oakland's championship powerhouse and held a 5-1 series advantage over Indiana's Eastern Division champions.

Coach Cliff Hagan's club performed its mid-season about-face with four rookies among its top seven players including three starters. So, with that year of experience for Boone, Combs and John Smith, it's apparent why the Texans pre-season outlook was optimistic.

Of course, it has been the forwards who propel Dallas officials to believe their duo of Cincy Powell and John Beasley rank with the best in the league. They present a complete contrast in playing style but in their own way, both get the job done—scoring and rebounding.

At 6-foot-7, the 220-pound Powell used his bull-like moves to the basket for a 19.4 scoring average. The 6-9 Beasley, Most Valuable Player in last year's ABA All-Star Game, could be the best outside shooting big man in all of pro basketball. He averaged 19.3 points and 10.6 rebounds.

Smith, a 7-footer, has unlimited potential, but if he doesn't come along as quickly as expected, the Chaps can use 6-8 Manny leaks at center. Bob Bedell also has been effective coming off the bench as a front line reserve.

Like most ABA teams, Dallas has excellent guards. Boone was chosen on the All-Rookie first team after putting together an 18.9 scoring average. Combs broke into the starting lineup midway through the season and averaged 22 points the rest of the way.

However, both face a challenge from 6-5 Charlie Beasley, the ABA's premier free throw shooter two years ago. Beasley is not as proficient a scorer as either Combs or Boone, but he is a better playmaker than either and has a knack of hitting the "open man." Rookie Tom Hagan (6-3, Vanderbilt), the team's No. 1 draft choice, was slowed by a broken ankle early in the campaign, but has shown great promise.

OAKS HAD HEX ON 3 OPPONENTS

Oakland's Oaks meant nothing but defeat for three American Basketball Association clubs during the 1968-69 season. The Oaks won six straight games without a loss from Indiana, Kentucky and New York during the regular season. Actually, other Eastern Division foes didn't fare much better. Oakland was 5-1 against Miami and Minnesota, giving them an over-all record of 28 victories and only 2 losses in games against Eastern teams.

DENVER ROCKETS

Joe Belmont

It was all wrapped up in a neat little bundle and handed to Coach John McLendon . . . the American Basketball Association's best team, that is. At least, that's the pre-season diagnosis of the Denver Rockets.

Put the Rockets down on paper, position by position, and they are an awesome sight, perhaps even as potent as Oakland's title-winning machine of a year ago.

But something went wrong. The team didn't jell and Denver was forced to make a coaching change after the Rockets skidded to last place at the start of the campaign.

Joe Belmont, an outstanding player at Duke University and with the Denver-Chicago Truckers of the defunct National Industrial Basketball League, succeeded McLendon. And he set about getting the Rockets back on the track.

The thing that was supposed to make Denver title timber was the signing of 6-9 Spencer Haywood, hero of America's gold medal triumph in the 1968 Olympic Games at Mexico City. After an All-America sophomore season at the University of Detroit in which he led the nation in rebounding, Haywood gave up his final two years of college eligibility to join the Rockets.

Denver also had Larry Jones, a slender 6-3 guard who was the ABA's total points champion last season. Jones has been picked on the All-ABA first team twice and put together a string of 23 consecutive games in which he scored 30 or more points. He'll probably be scoring less than his 28.4 average of last year, but he also figures to become a better playmaker and the dual threat of Jones as a scorer and feeder should help the Rockets.

Belmont also has veterans Bryon Beck (6-9), Julian Hammond (6-5) and Walt Piatkowski (6-8) returning for front line duty and he has muscular Lonnie Wright (6-2) and Jeff Congdon (6-1) back to share the guard assignments with Jones.

Beck and Hammond are both excellent marksmen and rugged rebounders. Piatkowski is an outstanding outside shooter and can use his height to good advantage.

Wright and Congdon, although playing in Jones' shadow, are two of the most popular players with Denver's enthusiastic fans. Wright is a steady—and heady—ballplayer who can do everything. Congdon is a flashing and unselfish speedster whose lightning passes keep Rocket teammates on their toes.

Denver has ground to make up, but time in which to do it. Nobody—least of all the Rockets—are counting Haywood, Jones and Co. out of playoff contention.

INDIANA PACERS

Bob Leonard

It seems only proper that the American Basketball Association's most successful franchise—attendance-wise—would also be the ABA's most successful franchise—record-wise.

Things haven't progressed that way yet, but Coach Bob Leonard's Indiana Pacers are working on it.

Last season, the Pacers took a giant step in that direction, first, by putting on a great finishing kick to win the Eastern Division with a 44-34 record and then by advancing into the championship playoff finals against Oakland.

Of course, it all ended there for Indiana, but Leonard's Pacers are back with bigger and better things in mind this season. And for Pacer fans, there's some talent around to build a few dreams on.

The front line of 6-9 Daniels at center and 6-9 Bob Netolicky and 6-5 Roger Brown at forwards has developed into the ABA's best. Guard Freddie Lewis is only a 6-footer, but his 20.9 scoring average of last season adds several inches to his stature.

That's four excellent hands, but, as Indiana fans know, it's that fifth spot that's all-important. The Pacers haven't been able to come up with a dependable "other guard" the past two years.

This season, they hope they've solved the problem with the late acquisition of former NBA standout John Barnhill, a seasoned veteran who may give the Pacers that final touch they need to go all the way.

Daniels was voted the league's Most Valuable Player last year and most deservedly so with a 24.0 scoring average and a league-leading rebounding average of 16.5 per game.

Brown had a 20.9 scoring average and is one of the league's best "one-on-one" players. He's short for a forward, but the Pacers can get by with Netolicky on the other side. Netolicky scored at an 18.7 clip and averaged 10.2 rebounds.

Depth has been a major deficit for Indiana, but some late off-season trades make that department look brighter. Art Becker was a starter at Houston the past two years and should make a good sixth man for the Pacers. Much-traveled Steve Chubin is back with Indiana and joins rookie Bill Keller and veteran Tom Thacker as backcourt reserves.

The Pacers list only Daniels on their roster at the center position, however. Netolicky can move into the pivot, but Indiana can't afford the loss of either man for a sustained period of time.

21 STRAIGHT FROM THE FIELD FOR BROWN

Roger Brown of the Indiana Pacers made 21 consecutive 2-point field goal attempts during a three-game span in the 1968-69 season. The 6-foot-5 Brown started his record streak by making the last three of 15 shots in a game against Miami at Indianapolis on Jan. 22, 1969. He hit 14 of 14—also a record for a single game—against Denver at Indianapolis on Jan. 25 and made the first of 12 shots in another game against Denver at Indianapolis on Jan. 29.

KENTUCKY COLONELS

Gene Rhodes

The American Basketball Association's highly successful 3-point field goal wasn't really put into the rule book for the Kentucky Colonels. It just seems that way.

With the dynamic backcourt combination of Darel Carrier and Louie Dampier bombing away from 3-point range and 6-9 center Gene Moore covering up front, the Colonels rank as perhaps the league's most explosive ball club.

And if the Louisville-based team received improved play at its forward positions, there's no reason why the Colonels won't be a front-runner in the ABA title chase.

Dampier and Carrier light the fuse for Kentucky, boasting 24.7 and 23.1 scoring averages, respectively. They also rank 1-2 in 3-point shooting. Dampier connected on 199 3-pointers last season and Carrier had 125. Nobody else in the ABA made as many as 85.

And with 6-5 Tommy Kron coming over from the NBA and 6-6 Wayne Chapman available for backcourt reserve duty, Coach Gene Rhodes can't help but smile when his guards are mentioned.

As a rookie out of St. Louis University last season, Moore had some brilliant performances and ended up averaging 17 points and 14 rebounds. However, he had a tendency to get into foul trouble so Kentucky added 6-8 Enoch (Bud) Olsen, a 7-year NBA veteran, as backup help.

Forward is where the improvement must come, however, and the Colonels are going with the same combination that was on the wings last season: 6-7 Jim Ligon, 6-7 Sam Smith and 6-7 Oliver Darden.

Ligon joined the Colonels two years ago without having played college basketball, but he's became a front line mainstay. A good scorer and a strong rebounder, he seems certain to be a starter. Last year, Kenutcky had the inside track toward winning the Eastern Division crown until Ligon was injured late in the season. Without him in the lineup, the Colonels slipped to third place—but only two games out of the lead.

Smith and Darden have both been steady performers, but haven't given the Colonels the punch the club has lacked on its front line. Rookie George Tinsley, picked up in a trade after the season got under way, could develop into a starter.

At any rate, last year's foldup—caused primarily because of a lack of depth—is not likely to be repeated. Kentucky has strengthened its bench while retaining its explosiveness.

COMPUTERIZED STATISTICS

Official statistics for the American Basketball Association are being compiled by Control Data Corporation. Statistician Lee Meade says going to the computer has saved the league more than 100 man-hours a week. The A.B.A. stats are figured in "a matter of seconds" over Control Data's 6600, the world's largest commercial computer.

LOS ANGELES STARS

Bill Sharman

Last year, there was an accent on youth in the Los Angeles Stars organization, meaning Coach Bill Sharman's club was expected to lose more than it won. This season, the expectations are quite different.

With those blue-chip rookies of last season returning after a valuable year's experience and the acquisition of several veteran performers in off-season deals, the Stars should be a greatly improved club this year.

Sharman had eight rookies on an 11-man roster last season, so he performed some sort of miracle in putting together a team that had a 33-45 record. But he's looking for much more this year.

Merv Jackson, George Stone and Bob Warren are the top rookies returning from last year. Veteran Warren Davis also is back. And the Stars picked up oldtimers Wayne Hightower, Bill McGill and Bob Warlick in trades.

Toss in a trio of promising rookies—Willie Wise of Drake, Mack Calvin of Southern California and Simmie Hill of West Texas State—and it's easy to understand why the picture is brighter in Los Angeles.

Jackson and Stone had identical 15.7 scoring averages last year, but an exhibition injury had Merv, the Magician, sidelined early this season. The backcourt still appears in good hands with the sharp-shooting Warren, Calvin and Warlick battling for starting roles.

The Stars have several combinations on their front line, but all of them will be built around Davis and Hightower. Davis is an excellent shooter and a solid rebounder, while Hightower is a versatile scorer, rebounder, playmaker and defensive standout. Both can play forward or center.

McGill, who led the league in 2-point field goal accuracy while with Denver last year, is an excellent scorer, but has had problems on defense. Stone is one of the league's best outside shooters and Wise comes highly recommended for his rebounding and scoring ability.

Sharman has a knack for getting the most out of his material. If he can make all of his available combinations click, the Stars could shine.

MIAMI FLORIDIANS

Hal Blitman

There's guard Don Freeman, one of the stars of the American Basketball Association during its first two seasons. There's a big, mobile postman in 6-10, 235-pound Duane (Skip) Thoren. And there's Larry Cannon, the high-priced All-America rookie out of LaSalle. But, nonetheless, there's still a big question mark surrounding the Miami Floridians.

The first five, headed by the cool, sharp-shooting Freeman seems solid, but there's a problem of overall team depth facing new coach Hal Blitman, along with getting more consistent play out of Miami's forwards.

The Floridians posted a fine 43-35 record last season to finish second in the Eastern Division under Jim Pollard, but after a slow start early this year, Blitman moved in, bringing with him a winning tradition from Cheney (Pa.) State.

Blitman's offense will be built around the 25-year-old Freeman, a two-year pro veteran out of the University of Illinois. At 6-foot-3, Freeman posted a 22.1 scoring average, ninth in the league, and was second in playmaking with 501 assists.

But then comes the problem of finding a running mate for him in the backcourt. The Floridians would like to see Cannon step in, but he's making the transition to the backcourt after playing a forward position in college and may need a year of adjusting.

Blitman has veterans Steve Vacendak and Andy Anderson and also is counting heavily on rookie Erv Staggs, who is short on experience but long on talent. Staggs, 6-foot-6, played briefly for Blitman at Cheney State.

Thoren is respected around the league as a solid boardman with a good shooting touch. His hook shot is one of the smoothest in the ABA. Thoren averaged 16.7 points and his 1,046 rebounding total was second in the league last year. Rookie Hal Booker, another Blitman product at Cheney State, stands 6-foot-10 and could be a big help if he can shake off the effects of an early season injury.

Don Sidle, Miami's No. 1 draft choice a year ago, had a solid rookie season and may be ready to establish himself as one of the ABA's top forwards. Veteran Willie Murrell has the edge for the other starting forward spot, but probably will have difficulties staying in the lineup over the 84-game route. Miami's front line reserves are tall and rangy — Wilbert Jones and Al Cueto both are 6-8 — but they're both rookies and need experience. Hubie White, a early-season acquisition, has the experience but lacks the height.

PLAYOFF TO DECIDE PLAYOFFS ENDS IN FORFEIT

The Kentucky Colonels and New Jersey Americans tied for fourth place in the A.B.A.'s Eastern Division during the 1967-68 season and were scheduled to meet in a sudden-death playoff to determine which team would enter the league's post-season championship playoffs. New Jersey had a 7-4 edge over the Colonels during 11 regular season games, so the Americans earned the right to host the showdown clash. But their regular playing arena in Teaneck, N. J., had a circus in it. So, the Americans made arrangements to play the game at the Long Island Arena in Commack, N. Y., on March 23. When the two teams arrived for the game, they agreed the floor was unfit for play. With the playoffs scheduled to start the next day, Commissioner George L. Mikan declared the game forfeited to Kentucky.

NEW ORLEANS BUCCANEERS

Babe McCarthy

There's a reason for that worried look among the American Basketball Association's Western Division contingent. They're concerned over what James (Babe) McCarthy will do for an encore with the New Orleans Buccaneers.

McCarthy was chosen by his peers as the league's Coach of the Year last season and has put together the best two-year won-lost record in the ABA, a 48-30 mark in 1967-68 and a 46-32 standard in 1968-69.

The Bucs traded stars Doug Moe and Larry Brown to Oakland after winning the Western Division and extending Pittsburgh's champions to the decisive seventh game of the post-season playoffs.

Then, while everybody worried about the plight of Buccaneers, McCarthy put together another well-coached, disciplined team that finished the season with a 13-game winning streak. It was enough to enable New Orelans to recover from a slow start and finish second behind Oakland's champion Oaks.

In the process, a super-star was born. James Jones, a 6-foot-4 second-year veteran from Grambling University, joined the ABA's exclusive 2,000-Point Club. Jimmy, who logged more than 3,000 minutes playing time for the second straight season, joined Denver's Larry Jones as the only players ever to score more than 2,000 points in a single season.

He scored 2,050 points, an average of 26.6 per game, and also ranked in the top five in 2-point field goal percentage and assists.

McCarthy will present almost the exact cast from last year's winning production and, with the added experience, it might make the Buccaneers the team to beat.

Ron Franz missed the first two months of the season because of military duty, but his role was ably filled by 6-foot-10 Gerald Govan. Jack Moreland, still young at 31, will be at the other forward spot. And Tom Bowens and Jerry Rook are available for reserve assignments.

Austin (Red) Robbins is shorter than most ABA centers at 6-foot-8, but he also rebounds better (13.5 average) and scores as well (15.9 average). If Franz can regain his starting forward spot, Govan is a dependable replacement for Robbins.

In the backcourt, the Bucs are at their best. With Jimmy Jones at one post and 6-5 Steve Jones at the other, there are few teams that can match up with New Orleans. Steve had a 19.9 scoring average last season.

McCarthy doesn't usually bring in a lot of rookies, but the ones he gets, usually stay. The prizes of the past two years of recruiting are a pair of guards, Mike Butler of Memphis State and Harley (Skeeter) Swift of Eastern Tennessee State. They'd probably be starters on any other team than one dominated by Jimmy and Steve Jones.

SHOT HEARD AROUND THE CAGE WORLD

It was November 13, 1967. The Dallas Chaparrals led the Indiana Pacers 118-116 with one second remaining, and the Pacers had the ball out of bounds at the far end of the court in the Dallas Memorial Auditorium. Oliver Darden passed the ball to Jerry Harkness, standing unguarded in the backcourt, just two feet from the base line. "I took the ball, drew back, aiming as much as I could and let it fly," Harkness recalled. "When I saw it go in, I thought, 'Well, if they count it, we get an overtime.' " A.B.A. Official Joe Belmont made the call. "I wasn't watching the clock," he said. "I was watching the play. The ball was in the air when the horn sounded." The other official, Gene Moyers, singalled the shot good. But it was a three pointer, coming from outside the A.B.A.'s 25-foot arc with some 63 feet to spare. Indiana won the game 119-118 on the longest field goal in the history of basketball—an incredible 88-foot shot.

NEW YORK NETS

York Larese

Nothing was left untouched in the complete overhaul of the New York Nets from last season. The housecleaning started at the top — with the ownership — and worked right down through the front office, coaching and player ranks.

But when you win only 17 of 78 games there can be no other way but up. And that's the way it appears the Nets are headed.

Last season's problems are a thing of the past. There's nothing but optimism on the horizon for the 1969-70 campaign.

And the man most responsible is Roy Boe, a 40-year-old, Brooklyn-born, Yale-educated dynamo, who headed the group that purchased the Nets from Arthur Brown. Then Boe stepped out of a highly profitable women's clothing business to devote his full energies to the success of the Nets.

He attracted immediate attention by hiring one of the nation's most successful intercollegiate coaches, Lou Carnesecca of St. John's University, and then brought in York Larese, former All-America cager at North Carolina, to serve as first year coach while Carnesecca completes his contractual commitment to St. John's. Next season, Larese will become director of player personnel and assistant coach, while Carnesecca takes over as general manager and head coach.

Those moves helped the environment considerably, but, of course, it's the changes on the court that will have to make the big difference. The Nets were busy during the off-season, looking at rookie prospects and buying established ball players from any team who had somebody to sell.

The most noticeable new faces belong to Les Hunter, a hefty 6-foot-7 forward, acquired from Miami, and Bill Melchionni, a heady backcourt standout who played two years with the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association. The Nets also picked up 6-9 Ed Johnson, the starting center for the Los Angeles Stars last season; Sonny Dove, a fine 6-7 prospect who never reached his potential during two seasons in the NBA, and veteran guard George Lehmann from the Los Angeles Stars.

The Nets reacquired Levern Tart from Denver and picked up a pair of promising rookies in 6-7 Luther Green and mammoth 7-1 Ron Taylor.

In fact, the only player returning from last year's New York squad is forward Walt Simon and he was a starter for the East in the second annual ABA All-Star Game.

The big question is how well and how quickly Larese can meld everyone into a unit. Johnson, Hunter, Dove and Taylor give the Nets potential strength up front, while Melchionni and Tart seem to be a perfect backcourt complement of each other. Simon can swing at either guard or forward, but — a sign of the improvement the team has made — probably will have to be content with a reserve role.

Pittsburgh's champions have come back home. But don't dig out my old programs from two years ago when they won the first American Basketball Association crown. There have been some changes made.

Most noticeable, of course, is the absence of Connie Hawkins, who played out his option and compromised a long-standing suit against the National Basketball Association by signing a contract with the Phoenix Suns. His departure, alone, makes it a rebuilding season.

Another ABA title may be out of the question this season, but Pittsburgh isn't exactly in the poor house talentwise.

For starters, there's cat-quick Charlie Williams, who makes up for a lack of size (6-0, 165) with great moves and a keen shooting eye. He was an All-League guard two years ago and could have repeated last season, except for injuries to himself and Hawkins.

There is a wealth of experienced backcourt material, including veterans Charles (Chico) Vaughn, Arvesta Kelly, Maurice McHartley and Barry Orms. Rookie George Thompson of Marquette is another promising guard prospect.

The Pipers signed 6-foot-11 Craig Raymond, who spent two years apprenticing in the NBA after being drafted by Pittsburgh in 1967, and also have rugged Mike Lewis on hand for pivot duty.

Lewis can play a forward spot, too, so there's a good possibility both Raymond and Lewis will be on the court together, giving the Pipers a strong rebounding duo.

There are several possible combinations at the forwards. Tom Washington was on the All-Rookie team two years ago when he led the ABA in field goal percentage. But the Pipers also have Stewart Johnson, who led Houston in scoring last season, and Dennis Hamilton, a two-year pro veteran from Arizona State.

There are a lot of "ifs" to Piper hopes this year, but if Raymond can do the job at center, if Washington, Lewis and Johnson perform up to their past records on the front line, if any of several candidates can go with Williams in the backcourt, and if the club can avoid the rash of injuries that dogged it last season, well . . . .

WASHINGTON CAPITOLS

Al Bianchi

The Washington Capitols' prospectus this season encompasses a wide area, ranging all the way from a team that can't miss to just another one of the pack in the American Basketball Association's Western Division.

There's a very apparent reason for the wide spectrum of speculation: Rick Barry's left knee.

Barry played in only 35 games last season because of knee injuries and he has been sidelined again for surgery early in the 1969-70 campaign.

This was pretty much the story a year ago, too, but the Caps, then operating as the Oakland Oaks, came up with Rookie of the Year Warren Armstrong and ran away with the ABA title anyway.

This season, the siege of injuries has included both Barry and Armstrong, along with Henry Logan and George Carter. With Barry and Armstrong healthy, you won't find many persons picking against the Caps. But the picture could change overnight for new coach Al Bianchi without them.

The Caps have a solid club. Bianchi had hoped to start Barry and Frank Card at forwards, Ira Harge at center and Armstrong and Larry Bown at guards.

With Barry sidelined and last year's super-sub, holdout Gary Bradds, missing all of Bianchi's pre-season training and the early part of the regular season, it's been a difficult start for the Caps.

He's switched Armstrong to a forward spot and moved Logan in as a starting guard with Brown. Then, Logan was hurt—at the start of the season and again early in the year.

The Washington reserves are good enough to keep the Caps in contention while the first-line troops try to lick the injury jinx.

Mike Barrett and Roland Taylor have played well in reserve roles at guards, 6-11 Jim Eakins would be a starter on several other ABA teams and Bradds is playing himself into shape. But a successful title defense for Washington still seems to be wrapped up in Barry and Armstrong.

Barry led the league with a 34.0 scoring average, while Armstrong ranked 10th with a 21.5 average. In the playoffs, with Barry gone, Armstrong upped his average to 28.8. There's no other 1-2 punch in the league that can equal them.

WHAT'S IN AN A.B.A. NAME?

It's not enough to call a player by his surname in the American Basketball Association. And even an initial doesn't help if the name happens to be Jones or Taylor.

The A.B.A. has four players named Jones. There's James and Steve Jones, both of New Orleans; Larry Jones of Denver, and Wilbert Jones of Miami. Last year, Kentucky had a fifth Jones, Johnny, and Dallas had a sixth, Nick.

In addition, New York has Ron Taylor and Washington has Roland Taylor. Dallas has a pair of Beasleys, John and Charles. There's Larry Miller of Carolina and Jay Miller of Indiana, Sam Smith of Kentucky and John Smith of Dallas, Roger Brown of Indiana and Larry Brown of Washington and Mike Lewis of Pittsburgh and Fred Lewis of Indiana.

Strangest of all, perhaps, is that none of the players are related.

A YEAR OF SUPERLATIVES

Alex Hannum

The American Basketball Association's second season was a year of superlatives. A year which proved once again that records are set only to be broken. A year when individuals and teams challenged and surpassed standards that had stood the test of time since the early days of professional basketball.

—Oakland's champion Oaks went through the 78-game regular season and 16 playoff games without being held below 100 points.

—Denver's Larry Jones reeled off a string of 23 consecutive games in which he scored 30 or more points.

—Houston's Mavericks played a game in which they represented perfection at the free throw line by converting all 36 of their penalty tosses.

And so it went.

Ironically, one of the greatest individual performances of the 1968-69 season did not go into the record book. Mel Daniels, Indian's 6-foot-9 center, was at the top of his game on March 18, 1969, as he scored 56 points and grabbed 31 rebounds in a game at Indianapolis against the New York Nets.

But he was one short of records in both categories. Minnesota's Connie Hawkins had scored 57 points earlier in the season and Oakland's Ira Harge pulled in 32 rebounds late in the 1967-68 campaign. None in ABA history had ever put together as many points and rebounds in a single game as Daniels did.

There were other spectacular performances. A teammate of Daniels—Roger Brown—had a streak in which he made 21 consecutive 2-point field goals and New York's Bob Lloyd converted 49 straight free throws. Kentucky's Darel Carrier made seven of seven 3-point field goals in a single game. George Lehmann of Los Angeles scored 27 points in one quarter.

Indiana and Oakland, the league's two highest scoring teams, were just about unbeatable when they were hot. The Pacers scored 172 points against the Los Angeles Stars one night. And Indiana and Oakland each poured in 90 points in one half.

It was an unusual season in the two divisions. While Oakland was running away with the Western Division crown, four teams remained in contention for the Eastern title until the final couple of weeks of the season. Indiana, which lost seven of its first nine games and didn't get above .500 to stay until February 26, finally won it by one game over Miami. Third-place Kentucky was just two games behind. Minnesota, the fourth team in the race, lost Hawkins with an injured knee and slumped late in the season to finish eight games off the pace.

The change-about was incredible for the Oaks. A year ago, Oakland lost its last 22 games and finished on the bottom of the Western Division with a 22-56 won-lost record. With Coach Alex Hannum calling the shots, the Oaks put together the best record in professional basketball—winning 60 games and losing only 18—to take the Western title.

In the playoffs, it was Oakland that prevailed. The Oaks squeezed past Denver in the opening round four games to three and then swept four straight from New Orleans in the Western finals. Indiana made it to the title round by overcoming a three games to one deficit to nip the Kentucky Colonels four games to three in the Eastern Division's first round. The Pacers downed Miami four games to one in the Eastern finals.

Oakland, with Super Star Rick Barry sidelined with an injured knee, called on Rookie of the Year Warren Armstrong and Super Sub Gary Bradds to lead it past the Pacers.

The scores of the title series were 123-114, 122-150, 134-126, 144-117 and 136-131. Both the third and fifth games went into overtime.

Attendance was up in the ABA's second year, spectacularly in paid admissions. With nearly 1,300,000 attendance during the regular season—an average of just under 3,000 per game—the legaue recorded single-game and season records.

Kentucky drew 13,067 for the 1968-69 season's opener against Oakland and Indiana played before 228,678, an average of 5,864 for 39 regular season games.

In the playoffs, attendance soared once more. Forty-two games drew 188,339 fans, an average of almost 4,500 per game. Indiana counted 64,817 attendance in nine home playoff games, an average of more than 7,200. Over-all, the Pacers drew 293,495 persons in 48 games, averaging 6,114.

Daniels was voted the league's Most Valuable Player by the U. S. Basketball Writers Association after winning rebounding honors for the second year. Daniels grabbed 1,256 rebounds in 76 games, an average of 16.5.

For the second straight year, the ABA had two individual scoring champions. Barry had the best scoring average (34.0 with 1,190 points in 35 games) and Denver's Larry Jones and New Orleans' James Jones were 1-2 in total points. Becoming the first players in league history to top

2,000 points in a single season, Larry scored 2,133 in 75 games and Jimmy had 2,050 in 77.

Barry was the only player to lead in more than one department. He also topped the league's free throwers, converting 403 of 454 attempts for an .888 percentage. Denver's Bill McGill led in 2-point field goal percentage with .552, Carrier had the best percentage in 3-point field goals with .379 and Oakland's Larry Brown led in playmaking with 544 assists and a 7.1 average. The titles were the second in a row for Carrier and Brown.

1969 ABA ALL-LEAGUE TEAM

Mel Daniels

Indiana's Mel Daniels, missing a unanimous first team berth by just two ballots, headed the American Basketball Association's official 1969 All-League team.

The 6-foot-9 Daniels, an All-America center at New Mexico University two years ago and A.B.A. Rookie of the Year last season, received 965 points out of a possible 1,000 in the voting by a panel of sports writers and sportscasters covering the league.

Joining Daniels on the first team are Larry Jones of Denver and James Jones of New Orleans at the guard positions and Rick Barry of Oakland and Connie Hawkins of Minnesota at the forwards.

The Jones boys, first players in A.B.A. history to score more than 2,000 points in a single season, received an identical number of points—895.8. Barry received 876.7 and Hawkins had 873.3.

Miami's Don Freeman led the second team voting with 501.8 points. Louie Dampier of Kentucky had 455.0, John Beasley of Dallas had 410.8, Doug Moe of Oakland had 308.4 and Austin Robbins of New Orleans had 260.8.

To equalize the voting, each of the 11 league cities was given 100 points. Members of the panel could not vote for players from their own city, making a total of 1,000 points possible.

Daniels also was honored as the league's Outstanding Player, while Indiana's Bob Leonard was cited as Coach of the Year and Warren Armstrong of Oakland was chosen Rookie of the Year.

Earlier, Daniels had been chosen the A.B.A.'s Most Valuable Player in a poll conducted by the U. S. Basketball Writers Association and A.B.A. coaches had picked James H. (Babe) McCarthy of New Orleans Coach of the Year.

1969 ABA ALL-ROOKIE TEAM

Warren Armstrong

Oakland's sensational Warren Armstrong was unanimously chosen for the American Basketball Association's 1969 All-Rookie team.

The 6-foot-2 former Wichita State University guard was placed on the first team by each of the league's 11 coaches who selected the squad.

Joining Armstrong on the first unit are forwards Larry Miller of Los Angeles and Walt Piatkowski of Denver, center Gene Moore of Kentucky and guard Ron Boone of Dallas.

The second five includes forward Don Sidle of Miami and Gearge Stone of Los Angeles, center Jim Eakins of Oakland and guards Merv Jackson of Los Angeles and Glen Combs of Dallas.

Armstrong, a Prep All-America at Central High in Kansas City, Mo., and a three-time All-Missouri Valley Conference performer, shouldered unexpected responsibility when a knee injured Oakland scoring star Rick Barry in mid-season.

Armstrong logged more playing time than any other Oakland cager with 2,545 minutes, led the Oaks in total points with 1,530 and had a 21.5 scoring average that ranked him 10th in the A.B.A. He also was the league's top rebounding guard with a 9.7 average.

Moore, who like Armstrong played his intercollegiate basketball in the tough Missouri Valley Conference at St. Louis University, was the second highest vote-getter. He was named to the squad by every coach and missed by just one second team choice of being unanimous.

Six members of the 10-man squad were 22 years old, while the other four are just 23.

John Beasley Leads West To 133-127 All-Star Win

John Beasley of the Dallas Chaparrals was still licking the icing off his fingers hours after the American Basketball Association's second annual All-Star Game.

The 6-foot-9 Chaparral forward had been named the Most Valuable Player after leading the West All-Stars to a 133-127 victory over the East before a crowd of 5,407 at Convention Center in Louisville, Ky.

Beasley's performance—19 points and 14 rebounds—enabled West Coach Alex Hannum of Oakland to score a unique "first" in professional basketball by coaching victorious All-Star teams in successive years in the National Basketball Association and the ABA.

"It's a tremendous thrill to be a part of a spectacle like this," Hannum said after the game. "Of course, in an All-Star Game, competing is the big thing. Winning is just icing on the cake."

Asked to compare the style and quality of play in the two leagues, Hannum answered candidly that "all the skills of the game are there in both. The difference is that there are bigger players in the NBA. But it's a question of size, not of better basketball. We play the same game and we play it just as well—with smaller people."

Hannum's strategy was to beat the East on the backboards and his West squad did it. With Beasley leading the way, the West had a 61-57 rebounding advantage.

Beasley played a truly outstanding game. He connected on eight of 12 field goal attempts and made all three of his free throws. The former Texas A & M standout also had a pair of assists.

"It was just determined not to take the bad shots," Beasley said. "In these All-Star games, you hear about how everyone goes point-hungry and just puts the ball up the minute they touch it. I didn't take a bad shot all night."

During a busy 29 minutes of playing time, Beasley popped in his soft, outside jumper and broke loose for close-in layups by following Hannum's terse orders to set tight screens around the boards.

Austin (Red) Robbins of New Orleans matched Beasley in scoring with 19 points, while Oakland's Doug Moe had 17. Denver's Larry Jones also set an All-Star Game record with nine assists.

The West opened a 38-33 lead in the first quarter, held a 54-50 advantage at halftime and increased it to 101-90 at the end of three periods. Then, the East staged a brilliant, but futile rally.

Triggered by Miami's Don Freeman, the game's leading scorer with 21 points, the East closed within a three-point basket at 127-130. But a free throw by Oakland's Larry Brown and a short jumper by Warren Davis of Los Angeles put the West out of reach.

Kentucky's Darel Carrier scored 19 points, New York's Walt Simon had 18 and Indiana's Mel Daniels picked up 17 in support of Freeman as seven East players scored in double figures.

The victory squared the series between the East and the West at one game apiece. The East won 126-120 in the ABA's first All-Star Game at Indianapolis, Ind., in 1968.

NINE STRAIGHT THREE-POINTERS FOR BIALOSUKNIA

Wes Bialosuknia of Oakland, the A.B.A.'s typographical terror, established an amazing long-distance shooting record during the 1967-68 season by making nine consecutive 3-point field goals. Bialosuknia started the string on November 30 with one 3-pointer against New Orleans in a game at Memphis, Tenn. He added two more in a game against New Orleans at Sacramento, Calif., December 17; hit two more against New Jersey at Oakland December 30; made another against New Orleans at Fresno, Calif., January 5, and made three straight before missing in a game against Kentucky at Oakland January 11.

AMERICAN BASKETBALL ASSOCIATION OFFICIAL RULES

RULE 1—COURT DIMENSIONS—EQUIPMENT

SECTION I—PLAYING COURT

A. The playing court shall be marked as shown in the playing court diagram (see page 3). The area within the 2-point zone, with the exception of the free throw lane rectangle, shall be painted a solid color (preferably the team's dark color). The area bounding the court may also be in this same color.

B. The free throw lane shall be marked as shown on the diagram with the lane space marks and neutral zones in a contrasting color to the bounding lines.

SECTION II—EQUIPMENT

A. The backboard shall be a rectangle measuring 6 feet horizontally and 4 feet vertically. The front surface shall be flat and unless it is transparent, the color shall be white.

B. If a backboard is transparent, it shall be marked with a rectangle formed by 2" white lines which shall be centered behind the ring. This rectangle shall have outside dimensions of 24" horizontally and 18" vertically. (On a non-transparent board, the rectangle target should be bright orange in color.) Borders of the backboard shall be marked with a white line 3" in width.

NOTE: Home management is required to have a spare board on hand for emergencies, and a steel tape or extension ruler and a level for use, if necessary, and ball inflater.

C. Each basket shall consist of a metal ring 18" in inside diameter with white cord net 15 to 18 inches in length. The cord of the net shall not be less than 30 thread nor more than 120 thread and shall be constructed as to check the ball momentarily as it passes through the basket.

D. Each basket ring shall be securely attached to the backboard with its upper edge 10 feet above and parallel to the floor and equidistant from the vertical edges of the boarl. The nearest point of the inside edge of the ring shall be 6" from the plane of the face of the board.

E. The official A. B. A. approved ball will be used in all games. The home management will make five balls available to each team for the pre-game warmup. The officials will select three balls, from those used by the visitors, to be used in the game. One will be used to start the game and the other two will be in reserve by ball boys stationed immediately adjacent to each basket. The official shall be the judge if the ball is to be changed.

RULE 2—OFFICIALS AND THEIR DUTIES

SECTION I—THE OFFICIALS

The officials shall be a referee and an umpire who will wear the approved A. B. A. official's uniform. They will be assisted by an official scorer, game clock operator and 30 second timer operator, and statistical crew. The referee will be designated on the assignment sheet from the League Office.

SECTION II—DUTIES OF THE REFEREE

A. The referee shall inspect and approve all equipment, including court, baskets, balls, backboards, timer's and scorer's equipment.

B. He shall not permit any player to wear braces or protective equipment without padding protection which, in his judgment, is dangerous to other players.

C. The referee shall check the three game balls to see they are properly inflated to a pressure between 7½ and 8½ pounds.

D. Officials will report to the scorers table five minutes before game time and immediately confer with the scorer and timers relative to scoring and timing procedures.

NOTE: If a coach desires to discuss a particular rule or interpretation of a rule prior to the start of the game, it will be mandatory for the other coach to be present during the discussion.

F. The referee shall toss the ball at the start of the game; he shall decide whether or not a goal shall count if the officials disagree; he shall decide matters upon which scorers and timers disagree.

SECTION III—ELASTIC POWER

The officials shall conduct the game in accordance with the official A. B. A. rules, but the referee shall have power to make decisions on any point not specifically covered in the rules.

SECTION IV—IF OFFICIALS' DECISIONS DIFFER

Neither official shall have the authority to set aside or question decisions made by the other within the limits of his respective outlined duties and neither official's decision takes precedence over the other in calling a foul.

NOTE: (1) If a foul is called by one official and a violation by the other, the two officials must determine which occurred first. If violation, ball is dead, hence contact foul ignored unless unsportsmanlike. If foul was first, ball becomes dead, no violation occurred.

NOTE: (2) It is the duty of the back official to signal if goals count. If for any reason he does not know if goal is made he should ask other official. If neither official saw goal made they should refer to timer. If timer saw the goal scored it shall count.

SECTION V—TIME AND PLACE FOR DECISIONS

A. The officials shall have power to make decisions for infractions of rules committed either within or outside the boundary lines. This includes periods when the game may be stopped for any reason.

B. When a foul occurs, an official shall signal the timer to stop his clock and if it is a personal foul, he shall also designate the number of the offender to the scorer and indicate with his fingers the number of free throws to be attempted.

C. When a team is entitled to a throw-in, an official shall clearly signal the act which caused the ball to become dead, the throw-in spot (unless it follows a successful goal, or an awarded goal), and the player or team entitled to the throw-in. The official shall hand or toss the ball to the thrower-in unless the throw-in is from outside an endline following a successful goal.

SECTION VI—CORRECTING ERRORS

A. Officials may correct an error if a rule is inadvertently set aside and results in:

(1) A team not shooting a merited penalty shot.
(2) A team shooting an unmerited penalty shot.
(3) Permitting the wrong player to attempt a free throw.

NOTE: All errors must be rectified before the start of the next quarter and whether shot is made or missed play resumes at the point when the mistake was discovered unless the game is over. Officials should be notified of error at the first dead ball.

SECTION VII—DUTIES OF SCORERS

A. The scorers shall record the field goals made, the free throws made and missed, and shall keep a running summary of the points scored. They shall record the personal and technical fouls called on each player and shall notify the referee immediately when a sixth personal foul is called on any player. They shall record the time-outs charged to each team, shall notify a team and its coach through an official whenever that team takes a sixth and seventh charged time-out and shall notify the nearest official each time a team is granted a charged time-out in excess of the legal number or when an automatic time-out is necessary. In case there is a question about an error in the scoring, the scorer shall check with the referee at once to find the discrepancy. If the error cannot be found, the referee shall accept the record of the official scorer, unless he has knowledge that forces him to decide otherwise.

B. The scorers shall keep a record of the names, numbers and positions of players who are to start the game and of all substitutes who enter the game. When there is an infraction of the rules pertaining to submission of line-up, substitutions or numbers of players, they shall notify the nearer official immediately if the ball is dead, or as soon as it becomes dead if it is in play when the infraction is discovered. Scorer shall mark the time at which players are disqualified by reason of receiving six personal fouls so that it may be easy to ascertain the order in which the players are eligible to go back in the time in accordance with Rule 3, Section I B, Page 8.

C. The scorers and timers shall use a horn or other device unlike that used by the officials to signal the officials. This may be used when the ball is dead or in certain specified situations when the ball is in control of a given team. Scorer shall signal coach on the bench on every personal foul, designating number of personal fouls a player has, and number of team fouls.

D. When a player is disqualified from the game, or whenever a penalty shot is being awarded, a buzzer, a siren or some other clear audible sound must be used by the scorer or timer to notify the game officials. It is the duty of the scorekeeper to be certain the officials have acknowledged the 6th personal foul buzzer.

NOTE: (1) If the scorers fail to notify the officials that a player has committed his sixth foul, playing time and points scored will count but the offending player must be removed as soon as the officials discover the error. Scorers should notify an official as soon as a player commits his sixth personal foul, but if play is resumed before notification, they should signal when the ball is next dead or is in control of the offending team.

NOTE: (2) If the scorers fail to notify a team or its coach when the seventh charged time-out has been taken, the team should be penalized if it takes an eighth time-out.

SECTION VIII—DUTIES OF TIMERS

A. The timers shall note when each half is to start and shall notify the referee and coach five minutes before this time, or cause them to be notified at least five minutes before the half is to start. They shall signal the scorers and teams two minutes before starting time. They shall record playing time and time of stoppages as provided in the rules. The timer shall be provided with an extra stop watch to be used in time-outs, etc., other than the official game clock or watch. Official clock or scoreboard should show 12 minute quarters. Starting at 20 minutes before game time the official game clock shall indicate the time remaining before start of the game. The playing floor shall be available for team warm-up at least 30 minutes before starting time.

B. At the beginning of each quarter or extra period or whenever play is resumed by a jump ball, the game clock shall be started when the ball has been legally tapped by either of the jumpers. If, after time has been out, the ball is put in play by a throw-in from out of bounds or by a free throw, the game clock shall be started when the official gives the time-in signal as the ball is touched by a player in the court.

C. The game clock shall be stopped: at the expiration of time for each period and when an official signals time-out. For a charged time-out, the timer shall start a time-out watch and shall direct the scorers to signal the referee when it is time to resume play.

D. The timers shall indicate with a gong, pistol, or siren, the expiration of playing time. If the timer's signal fails to sound, or is not heard, the timer shall use other means to notify the referee immediately. If, in the meantime, a goal has been made or a foul has occurred, the referee shall consult the timer. If the timer agrees that time expired before the ball was in flight, the goal shall not count. If they agree that the period ended before the foul occurred, the foul shall be disregarded unless it was unsportsmanlike. If there is disagreement the goal shall count or the foul shall be penalized unless the referee has other knowledge.

E. Only actual playing time is recorded in the last two minutes of the fourth period and the last two minutes of any overtime period or periods.

NOTE: Clock will be stopped immediately without signal from official, on all violations during this period of time.

RULE NO. 3—PLAYERS, SUBSTITUTES AND COACHES

SECTION I—TEAM

A. Each team shall consist of five players, one of whom shall be designated as the captain. No team may be reduced to less than five players. If and when a player in the game receives his sixth personal foul and all substitutes have already been disqualified, said player remains in the game and is charged with a personal and team foul. A technical foul also is assessed against his team. All subsequent personal fouls shall be treated similarly.

B. In the above, if a player is injured and must leave the game, he must be replaced by the last player who was disqualified by reason of receiving six personal fouls. Each subsequent requirement to replace an injured player will be treated in this inverse order. Any such re-entry in a game by a disqualified player shall be penalized by a technical foul.

SECTION II—STARTING LINE-UPS

At least ten minutes before the game is scheduled to begin, the scorers shall be supplied with the name and number of each player who may participate in the game. Starting lineups will be indicated five minutes before the game. (Home team first).

SECTION III—THE CAPTAIN

A. Only the designated captain may talk to an official during a time-out charged to his team and then only to discuss a rules interpretation but not a judgment play.

B. The captain shall address the official in a courteous manner and in no way incite spectators or other players by his actions.

SECTION IV—COACHES AND OTHERS

A. The coach must remain in the immediate vicinity of his bench and shall not go onto the playing floor at any time except when beckoned on by an official, for the purpose of attending an injured player.

B. A coach is not permitted to talk to an official during any time-out. (See Rule 3, Section III A, Page 8, for captain's rights).

C. A playing coach, unless he is also team captain, will have no special privileges. He is to conduct himself in the same manner as any other player.

D. Any club personnel not seated on the bench must conduct themselves so as not to reflect unfavorably on the dignity of the game or that of the officials. Violations by any of the personnel indicated shall require a written report to the Commissioner for subsequent action.

E. The bench shall be occupied only by the coach, assistant coach, players in suit, trainer and doctor.

SECTION V—SUBSTITUTES

A. A substitute shall report to the scorer, giving his name and who he is to replace. The scorer shall sound the horn as soon as the ball is dead to indicate a substitution. The horn does not have to be sounded between quarters and halves. No substitutes may enter the game after a score of any kind by either team.

B. The substitutes shall remain outside the boundary lines until he is beckoned on by an official. If the ball is about to become alive, the beckoning signal shall be withheld.

C. The substitute shall not replace a free throw shooter or a player involved in a jump ball.

D. Once the substitute has been beckoned onto the court, he must enter the game and cannot be removed until the next dead ball.

NOTE: (1) A substitute must be ready to enter when ordered having previously discarded any articles of clothing he will not wear on the playing floor.

NOTE: (2) A substitue can be recalled from the scorer's table prior to being beckoned into the game.

NOTE: (3) Substitutions may not be made during an official's time-out.

E. Failure to report properly or to go onto the floor before being beckoned is a technical foul.

SECTION VI—JERSEYS

A. Each player shall be numbered on the front and back of his jersey with a number of solid color contrasting with the color of the shirt.

B. Each number must be not less than $\frac{3}{4}$" in width. The numbers shall be a minimum of 6" on the front and 8" on the back. No digit shall be greater than five with the numbers being the same for the home and travel jerseys.

C. Players names may be used on the jersey.

D. The home team will wear light jerseys and the visitors dark color jerseys. On neutral courts and for double headers, the teams shall agree on the color of jerseys to be used.

RULE 4—DEFINITIONS

SECTION I—BASKET

A. A team's own basket is the ring and net through which its players try to throw the ball. The visiting team has the choice of basket for the first half. The teams change baskets for the second half.

NOTE: The basket selected by the visiting team when first entering upon the court shall be their basket for the first half.

SECTION II—BLOCKING

Blocking is personal contact which impedes the progress of an opponent who hasn't the ball.

SECTION III—DRIBBLE

A. A dribble is ball movement caused by a player IN CONTROL who throws or taps the ball in the air or to or on the floor and then touches it once or several times before the dribble ends. The dribble ends when the dribbler: (a) touches the ball with both hands simultaneously, or (b) permits it to come to rest while he is in contact with it, or (c) tries for goal, or (d) otherwise loses control, or when ball becomes dead.

B. An air dribble is that part of a dribble during which the dribbler throws or taps the ball in the air and then touches it before it touches the floor.

SECTION IV—FOULS

A. A personal foul is a foul which involves contact with an opponent.

B. A technical foul is a foul which does not involve contact with an opponent and can be assessed against a non-player as well as a player.

C. A double foul is a situation in which two opponents commit personal fouls against each other at approximately the same time.

D. Offensive foul is a foul committed by a player while he or a teammate is in control of the ball. (Jump ball foul—see Rule 6.)

E. An intentional foul is a personal foul which in the judgment of the officials appears to be designed or premeditated.

F. A flagrant foul is a personal foul of a violent or savage nature. It may or may not be intentional.

SECTION V—FREE THROW

A free throw is the privilege given a player to score one point by an unhindered throw for goal from a position directly behind the free throw line.

SECTION VI—FRONT/BACK COURT

A team's front court consists of that part of the court between its end line and the nearer edge of the center line, including its basket and inbounds part of the backboard. A team's back court consists of the entire division line and the rest of the court to include opponent's basket and inbounds part of backboard.

NOTE: A ball which is in contact with a player or with the court is in the back court if either the ball or the player is touching the back court. It is in the front court if neither the ball nor the player is touching the back court.

A ball which is not in contact with a player or the court retains the same status as when it was last in contact with a player or the court.

SECTION VII—LOCATION OF PLAYER

The location of a player is determined by the point where his foot is touching the floor. When he is in the air from a leap, he retains the same status as when he last touched the floor as far as the boundary or the center line or the free throw line is concerned. The location of an official is determined in the same manner as that of a player. When the ball touches an official, it is the same as touching the floor at the official's location.

SECTION VIII—HELD BALL

Held ball occurs when two opponents have one or both hands firmly on the ball.

NOTE: Held ball should not be called until both players have both hands so firmly on the ball that neither can gain sole possession without undue roughness. If a player is lying or sitting on the floor while in possession, he should have opportunity to throw ball, but held ball should be called if there is danger of injury.

SECTION IX—PIVOT

A pivot takes place when a player who is holding the ball steps once or more than once in any direction with the same foot, the other foot, called the pivot foot, being kept at its point of contact with the floor.

SECTION X—TRAVELING

Traveling is moving a foot or the feet in any direction in excess of the following prescribed limits:

A. A player who receives the ball while standing still may pivot, using either foot as the pivot foot.

B. A player who receives the ball while he is progressing or upon completion of a dribble may use a two-count rhythm in coming to a stop or in releasing the ball. The first count occurs:

(1) As he receives the ball if either foot is touching the floor at the time he receives it;

(2) As the foot touches the floor or as both feet touch the floor simultaneously after he receives the ball if both feet are off the floor when he receives it.

The second count occurs when, after the count of one, either foot touches the floor or both feet touch the floor simultaneously.

When a player comes to a stop on the count of one he may pivot and may use either foot as the pivot foot.

When a player comes to a stop on the count of two, if one foot is in advance of the other he may pivot but the rear foot only may be used as the pivot foot; however, if neither foot is in advance of the other he may use either foot as the pivot foot.

C. (1) A player who receives the ball while standing still, or who comes to a legal stop while holding the ball, may lift the pivot foot or jump when he throws for goal or passes, but the ball must leave his hands before the pivot foot again touches the floor, or before either foot again touches the floor if the player has jumped;

(2) In starting a dribble after receiving the ball while standing still, or after coming to a legal stop, a player may not jump before the ball leaves his hands, nor may he lift the pivot from the floor before the ball leaves his hands.

NOTE: (1) A player who falls to the floor while holding the ball is not traveling unless he makes progress by sliding.

NOTE: (2) If an opponent prevents a shot by placing one or both hands firmly on the ball so that the shooter or both players return to the floor holding the ball, it shall be held ball. If the shooter voluntarily drops the ball before he returns to the foor and he then touches the ball before it is touched by another player, it is traveling.

SECTION XI—SCREEN

A screen is legal action of a player who, without causing contact, delays or prevents an opponent from reaching a desired position.

SECTION XII—TRY FOR GOAL

A try for field goal is a player's attempt to throw the ball into his basket for a field goal. The try starts when the player begins the motion which habitually precedes the actual throw. It continues until the throwing effort ceases. The term is also used to include the movement of the ball in flight until it has become dead or has been touched by a player.

SECTION XIII—THROW-IN

A throw-in is a method of putting ball in play from out of bounds in accordance with Rule No. 6. The throw-in begins when the ball is at the disposal of the team or player entitled to it and ends when the passed ball touches or is touched by an inbounds player other than the thrower in.

RULE 5—SCORING AND TIMING

SECTION I—SCORING

A. A legal goal is made when a live ball enters the basket from above and remains in or passes through.

B. A goal from the field counts 2-points if shot from inside the 25-foot zone, (see floor diagram, page 3) and counts 3-points if shot from any other place on the floor.

C. A goal from the free throw line counts one point for the thrower's team.

NOTE: (1) If the ball is tapped in after an unsuccessful free throw, it shall count 2-points. If fouled during the tap-in, the player is awarded only one free shot.

NOTE: (2) Goals from the field, thrown in an opponent's basket shall be credited to the opponent's score, but not to any player. It shall be mentioned in a footnote.

SECTION II—TIMING

A. Each of the four regular quarters shall be 12 minutes.
B. All overtime periods of play shall be 5 minutes.
C. The time between quarters and time-outs shall be 90 seconds.
D. The time between halves shall be 15 minutes.
E. The time between halves for doubleheaders shall be 12 minutes.

NOTE: The public address operator shall announce the fact that there are two minutes remaining in each regular or overtime period.

SECTION III—END OF PERIOD

Each period ends when time expires and the timer's horn sounds except as follows:

(1) If the ball is in flight on a field goal attempt the period ends when the goal is made or missed.

(2) If a foul occurs at approximately the instant time expires for a period, the period officially ends after the free throw or throws are attempted. (No line-up at the free throw lane.)

NOTE: If time is out and the clock shows no time remaining, but the horn has not sounded, play shall continue until the horn.

SECTION IV—TIE SCORE

If the score is tied at the end of the 4th quarter, play shall resume in 90 seconds without change of baskets for one or more periods whichever is needed to determine a winner.

NOTE: When a foul occurs before the ball is dead and the fourth quarter (or extra period) is ended, no extra period is played. When the foul occurs after the fourth period has ended, the extra period must be played whether the foul shot is made or not. Any foul committed between periods or after the game has ended is a technical foul.

SECTION V—TIME-OUT

Time-out occurs and the clock shall be stopped when:

(1) A foul is called.

(2) A held ball is called.

(3) A player's request for time-out is granted.

NOTE: A team time-out can be granted only when the ball is dead or in control of the requesting player's team. The scoring team cannot take a time-out or make a substitution immediately after scoring (penalty: technical foul for called time-out, and play resumed immediately).

(4) Ball is out of bounds as result of a violation or going out of bounds.

(5) Officials time-out for injury or any other emergency or unusual delay.

NOTE: When defensive player is injured, the officials shall not stop play under any circumstances until after a goal is scored or the ball becomes dead.

(6) A field goal is scored during the last two minutes of the regulation game or any overtime period.

SECTION VI—CHARGED TIME-OUT

A. A team shall be charged with a time-out for each request approved in accordance with Section V.

B. Each team will be permitted one twenty-second injury time-out per half. (Exception may be made by the official to permit player to look for a contact lens).

NOTE: (1) The officials shall instruct the timer to record the 20 seconds and to notify them when the time expires.

NOTE: (2) No official's time-out will be permitted so that any player may adjust his clothing or equipment (shoe laces, glasses, etc).

NOTE: (3) During the last two minutes of the 4th quarter and any overtime period when a team in possession of the ball calls a time-out in the back court, play shall be resumed with a throw-in from mid-court.

At all other times, play shall resume at a point out of bounds closest to where the time-out was called and the team shall have been only those seconds that remained up to ten seconds to get the ball into the front court.

SECTION VII—TIME-IN

A. After time has been out, the clock shall be started as follows:

(1) When an official signals time-in. (The timer is authorized to start game clock if officials neglect to signal.)

(2) When an unsuccessful free throw which is to continue in play is first touched by any player.

(3) When a throw-in from out of bounds touches a player within the playing area of the court.

SECTION VIII—TEAM TIME-OUTS

A. Each team may be granted seven charged time-outs during regulation play. One additional time-out may be granted for each extra period of play.

B. Each team is limited to no more than three time-outs in the 4th quarter even though they have not used their allotted four time-outs in the first three quarters.

C. In overtime periods each team may use any unusued time-outs from the 4th quarter up to a total of three. Example: Team A was charged with two time-outs in fourth quarter. In first overtime period they may use the one unused time-outs from the 4th quarter in addition to the one they are entitled to from the overtime period.

NOTE: Additional time-outs may be granted at the expense of a technical foul for each time-out granted.

D. Each team must take at least one time-out per quarter unless their opponent has already taken two time-outs during that period. If neither team has taken a time-out during the first five minutes of each of the four regulation quarters, it shall be mandatory for the home team to take a time-out before the sixth minute of play is completed. If neither team has taken a second time-out before the tenth minute of play, it shall be mandatory for the visiting team to take a time-out before the tenth minute of play has elapsed.

NOTE: The scorer shall be responsible for checking the above. He shall signal a mandatory time-out, as prescribed above, at the first dead ball opportunity.

RULE 6—PUTTING BALL IN PLAY—LIVE/DEAD BALL

SECTION I—START OF GAMES/QUARTERS AND OTHERS

A. The game and any subsequent quarters and overtimes shall be started with a jump ball in the center circle.

B. After any dead ball, play shall be resumed by a jump, a throw-in, or by placing ball at the disposal of a free-thrower.

SECTION II—LIVE BALL

A. The ball becomes alive when:

(1) Tossed by an official on any jump ball.

NOTE: Clock starts only when tapped. (See Rule 5.)

(2) Ball is placed at the disposal of designated player for throw-in.

(3) Ball is placed at the disposal of a free throw shooter.

SECTION III—JUMP BALLS IN CENTER CIRCLE

A. The ball shall be put in play in the center circle by a jump between two opponents:

(1) at the start of the game;

(2) at the start of each regular quarter or overtime period(s);

(3) after a double foul situation on the ball, by both involved players.

SECTION IV—OTHER JUMP BALLS

A. The ball shall be put in play by a jump ball at the circle which is closest to the spot where:

(1) a held ball occurs;

(2) a ball out of bounds caused by both teams;

(3) a double free throw violation occurs;

(4) the ball lodges in a basket support;

(5) the ball becomes dead when neither team is in control and no goal or infraction is involved;

(6) officials have conflicting possession decisions.

NOTE: In (1) and (2) the jump ball shall be between the players involved unless injury precludes one or both of the jumpers from participating. If the injured player must leave the game, he will not be permitted to re-enter the game and the opposing coach selects the replacement.

SECTION V—RESTRICTIONS GOVERNING JUMP BALLS

A. Each jumper must have one, but may have both, feet on or inside that half of the jumping circle which is farthest from his own basket.

B. The ball must be tapped by one or both of the players participating in jump ball after it reaches its highest point. If ball falls to floor without being tapped by at least one of the jumpers, the official off the ball shall whistle the ball dead and signal another toss.

C. Neither jumper may tap the tossed ball before it reaches its highest peak.

D. Neither jumper may leave the circle until the ball has been tapped.

E. Neither jumper may catch the tossed ball nor tapped ball until such time as it has been touched by one of the eight non-jumpers, the floor, the basket or the backboard.

F. Neither jumper is permitted to tap ball more than twice on any jump ball.

G. The eight non-jumpers will remain outside the restraining circle until the ball has been tapped. Teammates may not occupy adjacent positions around the restraining circle if an opponent desries one of the positions.

Penalty for C, D, E, F, G: Ball awarded out of bounds to opponent.

NOTE: During any jump ball situation, officials shall sound whistle only if an infraction that occurs benefits offending team.

SECTION VI—DEAD BALL

A. The ball becomes dead or remains dead when:

(1) held ball occurs or ball lodges on the basket supports;
(2) time expires for a quarter, half or extra period;
(3) it is apparent the throw will not be successful: (a) on a free throw for technical foul or (b) a free throw which is to be followed by another throw;
(4) a foul occurs;
(5) a floor violation (traveling, 3 secs, 30 secs, 10 secs, etc.) occurs or there is basket interference or a free throw violation by the thrower's team.

RULE 7—30 SECOND CLOCK

SECTION I—PURPOSE

A 30 second timer shall be placed at opposite ends of the floor so that it is readily visible to players and officials. It will denote the time remaining for the team in possession to attempt a field goal.

SECTION II—OPERATION OF THE 30 SECOND CLOCK

A. The 30 second clock will start when a team gains possession of the ball.

B. A team in possession of the ball must attempt a shot to score within 30 seconds after gaining possession of the ball. To constitute a legal shot to score, the following conditions must be complied with:

(1) The ball must leave the player's hand prior to the expiration of 30 seconds.
(2) After leaving the player's hand the ball must hit the rim. If it does not and the 30 seconds expires there has been a violation committed.

C. A team is considered in possession of the ball when holding, passing or dribbling.

NOTE: In case of passing, or dribbling, team is considered in possession of ball even though ball has been batted away but opponent has not gained possession.

D. Team control ends when:

(1) there is a try for field goal;
(2) opponent gains possession;
(3) ball becomes dead.

E. If a ball is touched by a defensive player who does not gain possession of the ball, the 30 second clock shall continue to run.

F. If a defensive player causes the ball to go out of bounds, the 30 second clock is stopped and the offensive team shall, on regaining the ball for throw in, have the unexpired time or 10 seconds, whichever is longer, to attempt a shot.

G. If during any quarter there is less than 30 seconds left to play in the quarter, the 30 second clock shall not function.

NOTE: If an official inadvertently blows his whistle and the 30 second clock buzzer sounds while the ball is in air, play shall be suspended and play resumed by a jump ball between any two opponents in the nearest free throw circle if shot is unsuccessful.

H. If there is a question whether or not an attempt to score has been made within the 30 seconds allowed, the final decision shall be made by the referee.

SECTION III—PUTTING BALL IN PLAY AFTER VIOLATION

If a team fails to attempt a shot within the time alloted, the ball shall be taken out of bounds on the side of the court nearest to the spot where the play was suspended and handed to the thrower-in.

SECTION IV—RESETTING 30 SECOND CLOCK

An official shall have the power to reset the 30 second clock to cover any special situation that he thinks warrants such action.

RULE 8—OUT OF BOUNDS AND THROW-IN

SECTION I—PLAYER

A player is out of bounds when he touches the floor or any object outside a boundary. The position of a player in the air is determined by his position when he last was touching the floor.

SECTION II—BALL

A. The ball is out of bounds when it touches a player who is out of bounds or any other person, the floor, or any object on or outside of a boundary or the supports or back of the backboard.

NOTE: The ball is considered out of bounds if it passed over the backboard from the front and drops behind the board.

B. The ball is caused to go out of bounds by the last player to touch it before it goes out, provided it is out of bounds because of touching something other than a player. If the ball is out of bounds because of touching a player who is on or outside a boundary, such player caused it to go out.

C. If the ball goes out of bounds and was last touched simultaneously by two opponents, both of whom are inbounds or out of bounds, or if the Official is in doubt as to who last touched the ball, or if the Officials disagree, play shall be resumed by a jump ball between the two involved players in the nearest restraining circle.

D. After the ball is out of bounds the Official shall designate a nearby opponent of the player who committed the violation and he shall make the throw-in at the spot out of bounds nearest where the ball crossed the boundary.

SECTION III—THE THROW-IN

A. The throw-in starts when the ball is at the disposal of a player entitled to the throw-in. He shall pass it inbounds within 5 seconds from the time the throw-in starts. Until the passed ball has crossed the plane of the boundary no player shall have any part of his person on or over the boundary line and teammates shall not occupy adjacent positions near the boundary if an opponent desires one of the positions.

B. On out of bound plays the ball shall be put in play at the point where the ball crossed a boundary line and not from original throw-in spot.

C. After a score, field goal or free throw, the latter coming as the result of a personal foul, any player of the team not credited with the score shall put the ball into play from any point out of bounds at the end line of the court where the goal was made. He may pass the ball to a teammate behind the end line, however, the 5 second pass-in rule applies.

D. After a free throw violation by the throwing team, the throw-in is made from out of bounds at either end of the free throw line extended.

E. Any ball out of bounds in a team's front court shall not be passed into the back court.

NOTE: (1) Penalty—loss of ball to opponents at point of infraction.

NOTE: (2) When the ball is awarded to a team at the mid court, they must throw-in to their front court.

RULE 9—FREE THROW

SECTION I—POSITIONS

When a free throw is awarded, an official shall take the ball to the free throw line of the offended team. After allowing reasonable time for the players to take their positions, he shall put the ball in play by placing it at the disposal of the free throw shooter. The same procedure shall be followed for each free throw of a multiple throw. During a free throw for personal foul, the first space on either side of the lane must be occupied by an opponent of the free thrower. Teammates of the free thrower must occupy the next adjacent spaces on each side. It is not mandatory for the defensive team to occupy the third adjacent space. However, no teammates of the free thrower are permitted in these spaces.

NOTE: If the ball is to become dead after the last free throw, players shall not take positions along the free throw lane (technical fouls and fouls with no time remaining).

SECTION II—SHOOTING OF FREE THROW

A. The free throw or throws awarded because of a personal foul shall be attempted by the offended player. If such player must wtihdraw because of disqualification, he must attempt the throw(s) before retiring from the game.

NOTE: If a player is fouled and injured on the same play and cannot shoot the penalty shot or shots the opposing coach shall select from his opponents bench the player who will replace the injured player and this player will attempt the shot (s). The injued player will not be permitted to re-enter the game.

B. A foul try, personal or technical, shall neither be legal nor count unless an official handles the ball and is also in the free throw vicinity when foul try is attempted.

C. When a player is allowed three attempts to make two points, if the shooter or a member of his team causes a violation to occur on one of the two attempts, and a foul goal is nullified, the third shot must be taken.

SECTION III—TIME LIMIT

The try for goal shall be made within 10 seconds after the ball has been placed at the disposal of the free thrower at the free throw line; this applies to each free throw. (First warn.)

SECTION IV—NEXT PLAY

After a free throw which is not followed by another free throw, the ball shall be put in play by a throw-in: as after a field goal if the try is successful.

NOTE: After a free throw for a foul which occurs during the dead ball which immediately precedes any period, the ball shall be put in play in the center circle by a jump between any two opponents.

RULE 10—VIOLATIONS AND PENALTIES

SECTION I-A PLAYER SHALL NOT:

A. Violate the free throw provisions:

(1) After the ball is placed at the disposal of a free thrower, he shall throw within 10 seconds and in such a way that the ball enters the basket or touches the ring before it is touched by a player.

(2) Touch the ball or basket while the ball is on or within the basket.

(3) Touch the floor on or across the free throw line or lanes until the ball touches the ring or backboard or the free throw ends.

(4) Disconcert the free thrower in any way once the ball has been placed at the disposal of the free throw shooter.

PENALTY:

A. In (1), (2), (3), (4) if violation by offense, no point can be scored. Ball is awarded out of bounds to opponents opposite free throw line extended.

B. In (1), (2), (3), (4), if violation is by defense and throw is successful, disregard violation; if throw is unsuccessful, substitute throw shall be attempted.

NOTE: (1) If there is a violation by each team, ball becomes dead, no point can be scored, play shall be resumed by a jump ball between any two opponents in nearest free throw circle.

NOTE: (2) The out of bounds in "A" under Penalty and the jump ball provisions in "A" above do not apply if the free throw is to be followed by another free throw or if there are free throws by both teams.

C. Cause the ball to go out of bounds.

NOTE: If the dribbler in control steps on or outside a boundary, but does not touch the ball while he is out of bounds, returns in-bounds and continues dribbling he is considered out of bounds.

D. Violate provisions of putting ball in play from out of bounds.

(1) thrower-on shall not carry ball into the court nor fail to pass it within 5 seconds, nor touch it in the court before it has touched another player.

(2) no player shall have any part of his person over the boundary line before the ball has been passed across the line.

(3) after an official has designated a player to throw ball in, there shall be no change of player unless a time out by either team has subsequently been called.

(4) a player shall not step on or run over any boundary line while putting ball in play.

PENALTY: Loss of ball.

E. Run with ball, kick it, or strike it with the fist.

NOTE: Kicking the ball or blocking it with any part of a player's leg is a violation when it is a positive act; accidently striking the ball with the foot or leg is not a violation.

F. Dribble a second time after his first dribble has ended, unless it is after he has lost control: (a) through a try for field goal at his own basket; or (b) through a bat by an opponent; or (c) through a pass or fumble which has then touched another player. He shall not make more than one air-dribble during a dribble.

G. Violate provisions governing jump ball situations;

(1) If both teams violate the jumping rule, or if the official makes a bad toss, the toss should be repeated;

(2) If a foul is committed on any jump ball, it shall result in the loss of the ball for the offending team and the offended team shall be awarded the ball at the sideline nearest the jumping circle.

NOTE: To be treated as offensive foul.

H. Remain for more than 3 seconds in that part of his free throw lane between the end line and the farther edge of the free throw line while the ball is in control of his team.

NOTE: Allowance may be made for a player who, having been in the restricted area for less than 3 seconds is in the act of shooting at the end of the third second.

NOTE: Three second count shall not begin until the ball is in control in the offensive team's front court.

I. Be in continuous control of a ball which is in his back court for more than 10 consecutive seconds.

J. Be the first to touch a ball which he or a teammate caused to go from front court to back court while his team was in control of the ball.

NOTE: (1) This restriction does not apply if, after a jump ball in the center circle, the player who first secures control of the tapped ball is in his front court at the time he secures such control and causes the ball to go to his back court, not later than the first loss of control by him and provided it is the first time the ball is in his back court following the jump ball. Once said player establishes a positive offensive position this exception does not apply.

NOTE: (2) During a jump ball, a throw-in, a try for goal or a situation in which a player taps the ball away from congested area, as during rebounding, in an attempt to get the ball out where player control may be secured, the ball is not in control of either team. Hence the restriction on first touching does not apply.

PENALTY: Items E through J, Ball becomes dead when violation occurs. Ball is awarded to opponent at out of bounds spot nearest violation.

K. Use any sticky, foreign substance on the hands. (Notice sent to the Commissioner.) Penalty: Technical foul.

RULE 11—BASKETBALL INTERFERENCE—GOAL TENDING

A. Touch the ball or basket when the ball is on or within either basket.

B. Touch the ball when it is touching the cylinder having the ring as its lower base.

NOTE: In A or B if a player near his own basket has his hand legally in contact with the ball, it is not a violation if his contact with the ball continues after the ball enters the cylinder, or if, in such action, he touches the basket.

C. Touch the ball when it is not touching the cylinder but is in downward flight during a try for field goal while the entire ball is above the basket ring level and before the ball has touched the ring or the try has ended.

D. During a field goal attempt, touch a ball after it has touched any part of the backboard above ring level whether ball is considered on its upward or downward flight.

E. During a field goal attempt, touch a ball after it has touched the backboard below ring level and while ball is on its upward flight.

F. Trap ball against face of backboard.

NOTE: To be a trapped ball three elements must exist simultaneously. The hand, the ball and the backboard must all occur at the same time. A batted ball against the backboard is not a trapped ball.

PENALTY FOR ABOVE: If violation is at the opponent's basket, offended team is awarded two points (three if from 3-point zone). The crediting of the score and subsequent procedure is the same as if the awarded score has resulted from the ball having gone through the basket except that the official shall hand the ball to a player of the team entitled to the throw-in. If violation is a team's own basket, no points can be scored and the ball is awarded to the offended team at the out of bounds spot on the side at either end of the free throw line extended. If there is a violation by both teams, play shall be resumed by a jump ball between any two opponents in the nearest circle.

RULE 12—FOULS AND PENALTIES

SECTION I—TECHNICAL FOUL

A. Zone Defenses

(1) A zone defense shall not be permitted. The official shall first warn a team if he feels they are using a zone defense, then impose a technical foul for each re-occurrene.

NOTE: (1) Neither the player with the ball out of bounds nor the player receiving the pass-in shall be double teamed. (2) There shall not be more defensive players than offensive players in the back court. (3) After the offensive team has advanced the ball to its front court, a defensive player may not station himself in the key area longer than three seconds if it is apparent he is making no effort to play an opponent, three second count starts when the offensive team is clearly in control in front court.

Plenalty: Defensive team warned at first offense. Thereafter it is a technical foul.

B. Excessive Time-Outs
   (1) Requests for time-outs in excess of the maximum number permitted shall be granted; however, a technical foul penalty shall be assessed.

C. Delay of Game
   (1) A player shall not delay the game by preventing ball from being promptly put into play such as:
      (a) attempt to gain an advantage by interfering with ball after a goal.
      (b) failing to immediately pass ball to the nearer official when a violation is called.

D. Substitutions
   (1) A substitute shall not enter the court without reporting to the scorer and being beckoned by an official.
   (2) A substitute shall not enter after having been disqualified. (Exception: Rule 3, Section 1, A & B, Page 8).

E. Basket Ring
   (1) Any player, who in the opinion of the officials, has deliberately hung on the basket ring shall be assessed a technical foul.

F. Conduct
   (1) Referee may assess a technical foul without prior warning at any time.
   (2) Officials may penalize, without prior warning, any act of unsportsmanlike conduct by a player or a coach which, in the opinion of the officials, is detrimental to the game.
   (3) The first infraction shall be penalized by a technical foul and a fine imposed by the Commissioner. The second infraction shall be penalized by a technical foul with violator expelled from the game.

NOTE: Technical foul called for: delay of game, 3 second defensive violations are not considered acts of unsportsmanlike conduct in this case.

   (4) A technical foul shall be assessed for unsportsmanlike tactics such as:
      (a) disrespectfully addressing an official.
      (b) physically contacting an official.
      (c) overt actions indicating resentment to a call.
      (d) use of profanity.
      (e) climbing on a teammate to secure greater height.
      (f) changing his player number without reporting it to scorer and referee.
      (g) a coach entering onto the court without permission of an official.

NOTE: (1) Cursing or blaspheming an official shall not be considered the only cause for imposing technical fouls. Running tirade, continuous criticism or griping may be sufficient cause to assess a technical. Flagrant misconduct shall result in ejection from the game.

NOTE: (2) Assessment of technical foul shall be avoided whenever and wherever possible, but when necessary they are to be applied without delay.

NOTE: (3) If a personal foul and a technical foul are called against the same team at the same time, the technical foul shall be attempted first.

NOTE: (4) On technical foul attempts, whether the attempt has been successful or not, the ball shall be returned to the team having possession at the time the foul was called and play shall be resumed from a point out of bounds at center court.

NOTE: (5) The shooter of a technical must have been in the game when the technical was called.

SECTION II—PERSONAL FOULS

A. Types

(1) A player shall not hold, push, barge into, impede the progress of an opponent by extended arm, knee or by bending the body into a position that is not normal.

(2) Contact caused by a defensive player approaching the ball holder from the rear is a form of pushing or holding.

(3) Excessive use of elbows.

B. By Dribbler

A dribbler shall not charge into nor contact an opponent in his path nor attempt to dribble between two opponents or between an opponent and a boundary, unless the space is such as to provide a reasonable chance for him to go through without contact. If a dribbler, without contact, passes an opponent sufficiently to have head and shoulders in advance of him, the greater responsibility for subsequent contact is on the opponent. If a dribbler in his progress has established a staight line path, he may not be crowded out of that path but, if an opponent is able legally to establish a defensive position in that path, the dribbler must avoid contact by changing direction or ending his dribble.

NOTE: If a ball holder who is near a boundary is forced out of bounds by negligible contact, the official may award the ball to this player.

C. By Screening

(1) A player who screens shall not: (a) when he is behind a stationary opponent, take a position closer than a normal step from him; (b) when he assumes a position at the side or in front of a stationary opponent, make contact with him; (c) take a position so close to a moving opponent that this opponent cannot avoid contact by stopping or changing direction. In (c) the speed of the player to be screened will determine where the screener may take his stationary position. This position will vary and may be one to two normal steps or strides from his opponent. (d) Move after assuming his screening position, except in the same direction and path of his opponent.

(2) If the screener violates any of these provisions and contact results, he has committed a personal foul.

D. Penalties for Sections A, B, C.

Offender is charged with one foul and if it is his sixth personal foul he is disqualified. Offended player is awarded one free throw providing it is not an offensive foul. A second free throw shall be awarded if the foul is:

(1) flagrant.
(2) against a field goal shooter whose attempt was not successful.
(3) swinging of elbows (contact must be made).
(4) back court (if team is in control of the ball in its back court and a foul is committed against a member of the team, either in front or back court, it is a two shot foul).
(5) committed by a player whose team has exceeded the limit for team fouls per quarter. (See E below.)
(6) against an offensive player who has a clear path to the basket thereby being deprived of the opportunity of scoring.
(7) committed by a defensive player before ball is thrown in from out of bounds.

NOTE: (1) If a player, coach or assistant coach, is suspended from a game or games, he shall not at any time before, during or after such game or games appear in any part of the auditorium or stands where his team is playing, during such suspension. A player, coach or assistant coach may only remain in the dressing room of his team during such suspension.

NOTE: (2) A disqualified player must attempt any free throw awarded to him prior to leaving the game.

NOTE: (3) When a foul is committed by an opponent of a player who as part of a continuous motion which started before the foul occurred, succeeds in making a goal, the goal shall count even if the ball leaves the player's hands after the whistle blows. The player must, in the opinion of the officials, be throwing for a goal or starting an effort at the time the foul occurs. The goal does not count if the time expires before the ball leaves the player's hand.

E. Free Throw Penalties

(1) Each team shall be limited to five personal fouls per quarter. Personal fouls charged to a team in excess of five will be penalized by an additional free throw except as hereinafter provided.
   (a) During each over-time period the limitation shall be three personal fouls per team with an additional free throw for each foul in excess of three.
   (b) If a team has not committed its quota of five team fouls during the first ten minutes of each quarter or its three team fouls in the first three minutes of any overtime period, it shall be permitted to incur only one team foul during the last two minutes of each regular quarter and the last two minutes of any overtime period without penalty.
   (c) If the excess foul calls for two free throws (flagrant, back court, unsuccessful field goal attempt, swinging of elbows) the penalty free throw shall be permitted if either of the two is unsuccessful.

(d) If the foul committed by a player is against the shooter and calls for a single free throw one additional free throw is allowed if the shot is missed.

NOTE: (1) The highest number of points that may be scored in one play is four. Technical fouls are not considered a part of a one play situation.

NOTE: (2) Penalty free throws must be attempted by the player who attempted the original free throw.

F. Double Fouls

On a double foul a personal foul is charged to each player, but no free throw is attempted. If the double foul is "on" the ball, play resumes with a jump ball between the players involved. If the double foul is "off" the ball, the player who had possession of the ball, at the time of the foul, shall retain possession with play being resumed at a point out of bounds nearest where the play was interrupted.

G. Defensive Fouls Off the Ball

(1) When a defensive player commits a foul against an offensive player who is away from the ball and not, in the opinion of the official, directly involved in the play, the player shall be charged with a personal foul, the team charged with a team foul and after the free throw is attempted, the offended team shall retain possession of the ball. The throw-in shall be from a point at center court.

(2) Should the offending team be in a penalty situation, no penalty shall be awarded.

H. Offensive Fouls

(1) All personal fouls by players of the offensive team shall be penalized as follows:

(a) Personal foul charged against the offensive player, ball awarded to the opponent out of bounds at a point nearest to where foul occurred. Official must handle ball. No charge is made to team total.

I. One-Shot Fouls In The Back Court

(1) On all one-shot fouls in the back-court, the offended team will be given the ball out-of-bounds at the nearer side line. If the team is in the bonus the free throws will be taken in the normal manner. The foul is to be recorded as a personal foul and a team foul.

J. Fighting

A personal foul for punching or fighting may be imposed whether play is in progress or ball is dead. Regardless whether foul try is made or missed, ball shall be given to team shooting the attempt at side midcourt.

NOTE: When a shot doesn't hit the rim or backboard, any foul committed by the offensive team is an offensive foul. If the defensive team commits a foul, it is a personal foul. If the ball hits the rim or backboard, it should be treated as a personal foul, either by offense or defense.

NOTE: Any player who comes off the bench and on to the playing floor during a fight is subject to a minimum fine of $100.00 (Coaches excepted).

Comments on the Rules

GUIDES FOR ADMINISTRATION OF THE RULES

The restrictions placed upon the player by the rules are intended to create a balance of play; equal opportunity for the defense and the offense; to provide reasonable safety and protection; and to emphasize cleverness and skill without unduly limiting freedom of action of player or team.

The primary purpose of penalities is to compensate a player who has been placed at a disadvantage through an illegal act of an opponent. A secondary purpose is to restrain players from committing acts which, if ignored, might lead to roughness even though they do not effect the immediate play. To implement this philosophy, many of the rules are written in general terms while the need for the rule may have been created by specific play situations. This practice eliminates the necessity for many additional rules and provides the officials the latitude and authority to adapt application of the rules to fit conditions of play in any particular game.

CONTACT SITUATIONS.

1. Incidental Contact.

The mere fact that contact occurs does not necessarily constitute a foul. Contact which is incidental to an effort by a player to play on opponent, reach a loose ball, or perform normal defensive or offensive movements, should not be considered illegal. If, however, a player attempts to play an opponent from a position where he has no reasonable chance to perform without making contact with his opponent, the responsibility is on the player in the unfavorable position.

2. Guarding an Opponent.

In all guarding situations, a player is entitled to any spot on the court which he desires provided he gets to that spot first and without contact with an opponent.

a. In most guarding situations, the guard must be facing his opponent at the moment he assumes a guarding position after which no particular facing is required.

b. A player may continue to move after gaining a guarding position in the path of an opponent provided he is not moving directly or obliquely toward his opponent when contact occurs. A player is never permitted to move into the path of an opponent after the opponent has jumped into the air.

c. A player who extends an arm, shoulder, hip or leg into the path of an opponent and thereby causes contact is not considered to have a legal position in the path of an opponent.

d. A player is entitled to an erect (vertical) position even to the extent of holding his arms above his shoulders, as in post play or when double teaming in pressing tactics.

e. A player is not required to maintain any specific distance from an opponent.

f. Any player who conforms to the above is absolved from responsibility for any contact by an opponent which may dislodge or tend to dislodge such player from the position which he has attained and is maintained legally. If contact occurs, the official must decide whether the contact is incidental or a foul has been committed.

3. Screening.

When a player screens in front or at the side of a stationary opponent, he may be as close as he desires providing he does not make contact. His opponent can see him and, therefore, is expected to detour around the screen.

If he screens behind a stationary opponent, the opponent must be able to take a normal step backward without contact. Because the opponent is not expected to see a screener behind him, the player screened is given latitude of movement.

To screen a moving opponent, the player must stop soon enough to permit his opponent to stop or change direction. The distance between the player screening and his opponent will depend upon the speed at which the players are moving.

If two opponents are moving in the same direction and path, the player who is behind is responsible for contact. The player in front may stop or slow his pace, but he may not move backward into his opponent. The player in front may or may not have the ball. This situation assumes the two players have been moving in identically the same direction and path before contact.

4. The Dribble.

If the dribbler's path is blocked, he is expected to pass or shoot; that is, he should not try to dribble by an opponent unless there is a reasonable chance of getting by without contact.

THE ACT OF TRYING FOR GOAL.

A player is trying for goal when he has the ball and (in the judgment of the official) is throwing, or attempting to throw for goal. It is not essential that the ball leave the player's hand. His arm might be held so that he cannot throw, yet he may be making an attempt. He is thus deprived of his opportunity to score, and is entitled to two free throws.

If a player is fouled when tapping a tossed ball or a rebound toward or into the basket, he is not considered to be "trying for goal."

FOULS: FLAGRANT—UNSPORTSMANLIKE.

To be unsportsmanlike is to act in a manner unbecoming to the image of professional basketball. It consists of acts of deceit, such as accepting a personal foul charge which should be credited to a teammate or willfully accepting a free throw which belongs to a teammate, disrespect of officials, vulgarity such as the use of profanity.

A flagrant foul involves violent or savage contact such as striking a person with the fist, kicking, kneeing or running under a player while this player is in the air as the result of attempting a shot or otherwise. A flagrant foul always carries a penalty of two free throws, is charged as a player foul and is treated as a technical.

REPORTING TIME FOR OFFICIALS.

a. Officials shall report at the various arenas at least one hour before the game is scheduled to start and during this time, they shall confer on rules, mechanics, anl all situations concerning the game.

b. They shall report to the scorers' table five minutes before game time and immediately check with the scorers and timer.

REPORTS.

The officials shall report, to the Commissioner, any unusual situations which occurred during the game. A complete report shall be made of any technical fouls or players and coaches ejected from the game. These reports shall be made as soon as possible after the game.

WHO WILL OCCUPY BENCH.

The bench shall be occupied only by the coach, his assistant, players in uniform, trainer and doctor. Anyone attending the game, who has any official capacity with the club, shall be under the same jurisdiction of the officials as are the coach and players on the bench.

POLICE PROTECTION.

The home management is responsible for furnishing adequate police protection for players and officials. Failure to provide this protection shall be reported to the Commissioner.

DRESSING ROOMS.

The officials' dressing room shall be for the exclusive use of the officials. Visitors, team personnel, general managers, coaches, owners, news media, etc., shall not be allowed in the room (attendants and authorized A. B. A. personnel excepted), and a standard A. B. A. "No Admittance" sign shall be displayed on the dressing room door. The timer shall notify the officials when there is five minutes remaining before the half time is over.

PUBLIC RELATIONS.

a. Officials are not to fraternize with players, coaches, other team officials, fans, press, radio, etc.

b. While waiting for the pre-game preliminaries to be dispensed with the two officials will assume a position in proximity of the scorers table.

c. Officials will not issue directly or indirectly, statements or stories to the newspaper representatives regarding individual players, coaches or owners. If an unusual play occurs during a game, the official may state the pertinent rule and his decision only. Do not elaborate, this can lead to misinterpretations and misrepresentations. If newsmen pursue the subject, state all further questions will be answered by the Commissioner.

d. Do not engage the team captain or any other player or coach in a lengthy discussion of a play situation that may occur during course of a game. Give the team captain a courteous, definite answer to his question and resume play as soon as possible.
